

Jessica Constant's Bio

Jessica Constant is an accomplished professional with almost two decades of extensive expertise in risk management and compliance. With a career spanning roles at leading organizations, Jessica has a track record of success in enhancing controls and compliance frameworks. At AstraZeneca, she serves as Business Director, leading comprehensive risk assessments and collaborating with stakeholders to improve control environments.

Jessica's career highlights also include both compliance and audit (external and internal) positions at various organizations include QIAGEN Sciences, Wells Fargo, National Grid, Ernst & Young, and PricewaterhouseCoopers. Known for her cross-functional collaboration and regulatory expertise, she is seen a trusted advisor dedicated to promoting risk awareness and compliance effectiveness, shaping policies, and driving operational efficiency and innovation. She holds a Master of Science degree in Accounting, and dual Bachelor degrees in Business Administration and Economics.

In addition to her professional achievements, Jessica is a long standing member of the National Association of Black Accountants, Inc (NABA), where she most recently served as Director of Student Member Service for the Washington Metro DC Chapter. In this capacity, she oversaw a committee of volunteer professionals and students across five universities in the Washington DC Metro Area. Jessica successfully planned and coordinated student events and conferences, enhancing the visibility of the student chapters to corporate recruiters. She played a key role in building relationships with corporate partners in the DC Metro area, delivering presentations on the value impact of partnerships with the organization to the firms.

Jessica is not only a dedicated professional but also a parent member of the Frederick Classical Charter School, where she actively advocates for charter schools. Her commitment to education and community involvement extends beyond her professional sphere, showcasing her passion for fostering growth and development in both the professional and academic realms.